ABOUT

James is part of our DC Advisory US team with more than 25 years' investment banking experience.

Before joining DC, prior roles have included running the Forest Product groups at Greenhill and Citigroup, as well as UBS. James was originally an II-ranked Equity Research Analyst at Lehman Brothers.

James says: "My diversified experience advising companies across the Forest Products industry enables me to provide my clients with objective, independent advice to best position themselves in a constantly changing global marketplace."
