DC Advisory advised MeTEOR Education on its growth investment from Saw Mill Capital

DC Advisory* is pleased to announce that its client MeTEOR Education, a Hudson Ferry Capital portfolio company, has received a growth equity investment from Saw Mill Capital. MeTEOR is a leading educational services partner that works with educators, students, and entire communities to develop High-Impact Learning Experiences™. With a goal of positively impacting millions of K-12 students nationwide as education faces a new era of change, MeTEOR helps drive student engagement and ownership of learning in a way that creates lifelong skills for the future. The new investment will be used to deepen local relationships within areas where MeTEOR already serves its clients; develop more targeted educational resources that serve as catalysts of change; and extend the organization's powerful set of student engagement solutions.

We looked at a number of firms for potential partnership — ones that not only were highly qualified but also motivated to work with us on this transition. The DC Advisory* team had that something 'extra' that you look for in a partnership, where you have the utmost confidence they will work harder, think more deeply and ultimately deliver a better result for your team. DC Advisory* did just that. We are so pleased to have worked with them through this transition.
