DC Advisory advised Humantech on its sale to VelocityEHS

DCS Advisory, a leading investment banking firm, advised Humantech in its acquisition by VelocityEHS, a portfolio company of CVC Capital Partners and the global leader in cloud-based environment, health, safety (EHS) and sustainability solutions.

Humantech, Inc. (Humantech) is the leading global ergonomics assessment and training solutions provider specializing in industrial ergonomics. The company's proven solutions improve workplace design and increase employee safety and productivity, while enhancing product quality. Humantech's comprehensive platform combines online training and assessment tools, focused job improvement activities, and a powerful management database, enabling organizations to deploy, monitor and manage the ergonomics improvement process in all workplace environments, including industrial and office settings. The company's offerings drive material ROI for its Fortune 1000 customer base as it reduces workers' compensation costs, injury rates and lost workdays.

This represents the third successful transaction consummated by DCS Advisory's Environment, Health & Safety (EHS) practice thus far in 2018. DCS Advisory's EHS practice strives to be the advisor of choice for companies providing workplace, environmental, product and food-related safety and compliance solutions globally.

The DCS Advisory team provided expert guidance and transaction support as we embarked on a comprehensive review of financial and strategic alternatives to fuel the next phase of our company's growth. Not only did they exhibit a unique understanding of our industry and extensive relationships with all the logical players, but their diligence, commitment and thoughtfulness throughout all stages of the process ensured a successful outcome.
