DC Advisory advised Loggly on its sale to SolarWinds

DC Advisory* is pleased to announce that its client Loggly, Inc., the cloud-based log-monitoring and analytics services, has been acquired by SolarWinds, a leading provider of powerful and affordable IT management software.

Loggly® is a SaaS-based, unified log monitoring and log analytics product, that aggregates, structures, and summarizes log data so users can analyze and visualize their data to answer key questions, spot trends, and deliver actionable reports.

Rapidly visualizing vast amounts of data through log analytics is absolutely critical to solving many problems in today's diverse, complex cloud-application and microservices environments. Adding Loggly to our industry-leading portfolio will empower customers to accelerate their time-to-insight and solve problems faster, with our usual, disruptive affordability.

Christoph Pfister
Executive Vice President of products, SolarWinds.
